II. COURSE PROGRAMME (DETAILS ON CONTENT AND REQUIREMENTS)

18. Course description:

The course starts with an introductory lecture on the main trends in Hungarian foreign policy between the two World Wars and then analyses the still much debated process of Sovietization of the East Central European region, including Hungary. Due attention will be paid to the European peace settlement following World War II and to the Paris Peace Treaty.

After discussing Hungary's integration in the Soviet Bloc, presentation of the emerging détente process and the new doctrine of „active foreign policy” between 1953 and 1956 will follow. The crisis year 1956 will be dealt with in a broad international context, comparing great power politics towards the three crises of the time: Poland, Hungary and Suez.

Several classes will be devoted to the analysis of Hungarian foreign policy in the Kádár era focusing on key issues like the German question, European security, political cooperation within the Soviet Bloc and Hungary's role in fostering East–West rapprochement.

The last three lectures will analyze Hungarian foreign policy during and after the political transition in 1989–1990 up to the country's joining the European Union in 2004.

19. Competency description:

Students will acquire a broad and up to date knowledge on the history of Hungarian foreign policy by studying both the determinations and the room for manoeuvre of a small East Central European state during and following the Cold War era. Hungarian foreign policy will be analysed in a regional comparative framework as well as in the general context of East–West relations. Students will also get an insight on the development, dilemmas, determinations and challenges of democratic Hungary in the process of the Euro-Atlantic integration.

20. Individual student assignments:

Students need to submit a 10–15 page long research-paper in connection with one of the lecture topics by the time of lecture 14.

21. Course participation:

Attendance of the class is compulsory as English language literature on the topic is scarce and thus a successful final exam is possible only by the knowledge of the content of the lectures. Absence from a maximum of 3 classes is acceptable when a serious reason is proven.

22. Mid-term assessment:
