MI 730. BIBLICAL THEOLOGY OF MISSION

DESCRIPTION

A study of principal texts in the Old and New Testaments dealing with mission, evangelism, discipling and renewal, with attention to relevant scholarly debate regarding their significance. 3 hours.

OBJECTIVES

1. To study Scripture so that mission is based primarily in God's self-revelation.
2. To appreciate the whole biblical canon as significant for a biblical theology of mission.
3. To discern from Scripture both theological truths and practical models for mission.
4. To develop a biblical hermeneutic for cross-cultural mission.
5. To better understand the church as a missionary community.
6. To demonstrate the value of inductive study of Scripture for mission, evangelism, and discipling.

COURSE METHOD

Direct study of Scripture will be the primary focus of the course. This will be supplemented by assigned reading. Class sessions will be devoted mostly to the study of particular biblical passages, plus discussion of readings and some lecture material.

We will follow the schedule indicated below. Normally there will be a break from about 9:00 to 9:15.

TEXTS

The Bible. NRSV, NIV, or TNIV preferred.

Let the Earth Rejoice: A Biblical Theology of Holistic Mission, by William Dyrness. Wipf & Stock, 1998.

Images of the Church in Mission, by John Driver. Herald Press, 1997.

Slaves, Women and Homosexuals: Exploring the Hermeneutics of Cultural Analysis, by William J. Webb. InterVarsity, 2001.

RECOMMENDED RESOURCES

Announcing the Kingdom: The Story of God's Mission in the Bible. Glasser, Arthur F., with Charles E. Van Engen, Dean S. Gilliland, and Shawn B. Redford. Baker Academic, 2003.

The Biblical Foundations for Mission, by Donald Senior and Carroll Stuhlmueller. Orbis, 1983.

Kingdom, Church, and World, by Howard A. Snyder. Wipf & Stock, 2002.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

1. Participation in all class sessions, including taking an active, informed part in discussion.
2. Completion of readings and written assignments, as listed in the Class Schedule. For each class session, read first the listed Scriptures, then the assigned secondary reading. Note that there are three short written assignments, as indicated in the schedule.
3. A book report comparing and contrasting the views and hermeneutical approach and understanding of mission of any two of the following books. Due March 31.

Arthur Glasser, et al., Announcing the Kingdom: The Story of God's Mission in the Bible
 H. D. Beeby, Canon and Mission

4. A research paper delineating your own biblical theology of mission (20-30 pages). This should be based primarily on your own study of Scripture, though you may use secondary sources as relevant. Scripture references should be given in-text; for secondary works, use reference notes and bibliography.

Suggested methodologies: Trace a particular theme, or set of themes, through Scripture; or examine the theology of mission in up to four biblical books (including at least one O.T. book).

Some questions you may want to consider as you develop your paper: What key texts and/or hermeneutical approach will I use? What is God's intent for people, the nations (or culture), and the creation? How are we to understand the central significance of God's revelation through Jesus Christ? What is the role of the Holy Spirit in mission? In what sense is the church a missionary community? (You do not need to respond specifically to these questions, but such questions should inform the development of the biblical basis for your paper.)

The research paper is due May 12 but may be submitted earlier.

5. A take-home final exam consisting of three essay questions covering material studied during the course. The exam will be given out during the final class session and will be due in the ESJ School Office by 9:00 a.m. on Thursday, May 19.

GUIDELINES FOR RESEARCH PAPER

1. You may use either the anthropological style (recommended by the ESJ School) or the Chicago/Turabian style, but be consistent. The paper must be computer-printed, and should include appropriate documentation of sources cited or consulted. (See "Academic Writing in the ESJ School," available as a hand-out from the ESJ School Office.)

2. Attach a title page giving the paper's title, your name and SPO number (or off-campus address), course name and number, professor's name, and date. Staple in upper left-hand corner. Please do not use a cover or binder. (I may later request a second clean copy of your paper for my files.)

3. The paper should be at least 20 pages, and not more than 30. The grade will depend on the content, development of the argument, and evidence of adequate biblical research, not length.

4. The paper should contain no spelling errors. Use a spell-checker.

5. Please avoid these common mistakes:

Improper or incomplete footnote/endnote style or bibliographic entry style

Improperly placed (for U.S. English) quotation marks:

Correct: "mission."
 Correct: "mission,"

Incorrect: "mission".
 Incorrect: "mission",

Question marks, exclamation points, and semicolons are placed outside the quoted material unless they are part of the quotation. In blocked (indented) quotations of more than four lines, quotation marks at beginning and end of the quotation are unnecessary.

Improper use of its and it's.

its is a possessive, meaning "belonging to it."

it's is a contraction, meaning "it is."

Footnote reference numbers (if used) placed before a period or comma.

Correct: "mission."¹ Incorrect: "mission"¹.

6. Students for whom English is not their natural language may want to get editorial assistance. I will evaluate only the final product. Correct English tends to have a favorable influence on grade.

ATTENDANCE POLICY: See the current seminary Catalog, p. 24.

EVALUATION

In grading, the course components will be weighted approximately as follows:

Class participation, including input from readings	25%
Short written assignments (3)	15%
Book report	15%
Final paper	25%
Final exam	20%

A Biblical Theology of the Book of Leviticus (New Studies in Biblical Theology, Volume 37). L. Michael Morales. 4.9 out of 5 stars 142. Even without quoting these extra biblical sources Mr. Beale still has a solid case about missions and the understanding of expanding creation excellent thesis and I applaud his efforts to reveal hidden truths from God's word, they all point to Messiah Yeshua! It is historical and chronological in nature Example: healing throughout the Bible. 1. Be able to explain (briefly) the missional logic found in Gen. 18:19. - There are three different elements to the missional logic: election, ethics, and mission. While all three of these are important, ethics is what grounds the other two. In order to fulfill God's call to bless the nation, we need to be obedient to God in order to carry out our role as a blessing to the nations. Such a biblical theology outlines the function and mission of the church, which includes gospel proclamation, teaching, Christian witness, individual and corporate worship, holistic development, transformational ministries, discipleship, nurture, and other services toward human beings. Whenever implemented through the power of the Holy Spirit, such mission will not only include the responsibility of preaching but also living out the gospel. The purpose of this biblical theology of mission is to analyze what the Bible says about subjects related to the mission of God as well as to act as an i... The mission of the church is not a business and can never be assessed on a simple cost effectiveness basis, but some kind of evaluation is essential if we are to be good stewards of the resources we are entrusted with. This represents an attempt by one Adventist scholar to identify how the effectiveness of mission could be evaluated, taking into account Biblical principles. I.
