Middle English literature was written in Middle English, the language of Chaucer or the Pearl Poet from about the year 1200 through about 1400. The opening lines of Chaucer's Canterbury Tales are as follows: Whan that Aprille with his shoures soote. Old English was what was written and spoken in England (not Wales or Scotland which were Celtic) before Middle English, that is up to 1150 a.d. We are now using modern English. From right after Chaucer was considered modern English. If you have studied French, Spanish, or German as a native English speaker, it may be hard to fathom why a dog is male even it is female, or why a table needs to be male or female at all. OE had gender of nouns, but it was dropped in the transition to ME. Old English Literature Medieval Literature. Unit 1 Anglo Saxon British Literature Ms. Carroll.
